A Ransom Paid: Martyrdom

But apparently no one could get along with the rebels in the bitter tensions which developed. So there came the dark day when Dr. Carlson, along with many others, was led to Lumumba Square—and then shot to death by the people he had sought to help in the name of Christ.

How has his family reacted? Dr. Dwight Carlson, 31, now in residency in Harbor General Hospital near here declares: "We prayed as a family for his life; but prayed also that God's will would be done."

"Despite the emotion and tears that welled up in our hearts, we were reminded of a statement our mother made many years ago, that God had given her each of her children and she and Dad committed them to God to use as He saw fit.

"We feel He has done this in this incident."

To the Simbas, Dr Carlson was their captive as they led him out into the Stanleyville street to die. But his family and all those everywhere who share his faith in Christ and in the Bible as the Word of God, know that as he walked out to die, he was really "captive in Christ's triumphal procession." And somehow they know that, not only to those rebel captors but to all, a shocked and grieving world, he has by his life and death fulfilled his prayerful desire . . . he has revealed and spread abroad the fragrance of the knowledge of Christ.
